

We're going on strike on Wednesday 2 September to fight for a pay rise of 20%+, improvements to conditions and workloads. But to win, we need you to join the union and strike with us.

The cost of living is out of control, and our pay isn't keeping up. Our workloads are increasing and working conditions are going backwards. Our work is essential to keep the University running, and we deserve better!

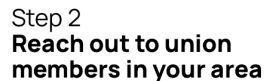

The University has so far refused the union's demands and instead proposed changes which would reduce staff input into change plans, worsen workloads for academic staff and has refused equal severance pay for professional staff.

If the University gets its way, our pay and conditions over the next 3 years could go backwards even further.

The more of us on strike, the more pressure we put on the university to accept our demands. Strikes are how workers have won better pay and conditions throughout history and its why staff at USYD have the best agreement in the country. Teachers in Victoria have just won a 28.3% raise over 4 years by going on strike.

We're asking you to help us fight for a better agreement: join the union, join the strike (ie. don't work), and join us on the picket line!

In solidarity,
Your colleagues in the National Tertiary Education Union

Step 3
Join us
on strike

We need you to join us on strike

We're going on strike on Wednesday 2 September to fight for a pay rise of 20%+, improvements to conditions and workloads. But to win, we need you to join the union and strike with us.

The cost of living is out of control, and our pay isn't keeping up. Our workloads are increasing and working conditions are going backwards. Our work is essential to keep the University running, and we deserve better!

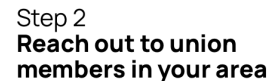

The University has so far refused the union's demands and instead proposed changes which would reduce staff input into change plans, worsen workloads for academic staff and has refused equal severance pay for professional staff.

If the University gets its way, our pay and conditions over the next 3 years could go backwards even further.

The more of us on strike, the more pressure we put on the university to accept our demands. Strikes are how workers have won better pay and conditions throughout history and its why staff at USYD have the best agreement in the country. Teachers in Victoria have just won a 28.3% raise over 4 years by going on strike.

We're asking you to help us fight for a better agreement: join the union, join the strike (ie. don't work), and join us on the picket line!

In solidarity,
Your colleagues in the National Tertiary Education Union

Step 3
Join us
on strike

More info ►